Nips Tell of Battle On New Jap Isle

GUAM, June 27 (AP)—Radio Tokyo reported Allied invasion forces were fighting their way today onto Kume island, 50 miles west of Okinawa, and predicted American assault forces might land on the China coast preparatory to invading Japan. The unconfirmed report on the Kume invasion said "heavy fighting is now in progress." It described the action as a "fresh landing" in the central Ryukyu islands where Americans are developing new bases to hit the enemy homeland.

Tokyo quoted Maj. Gen. Masori Ito, one of Japan's leading military commentators, as saying there was no immediate prospect of an invasion of Japan and Okinawa is "totally unsuitable" as a base for large scale operations.

Another broadcast quoted the Tokyo newspaper Yomiuri Hochi as noting "the possibility is great that the enemy will attempt a landing on the China continent in preparation for actual invasion of Japan.

Capture of Kume would add a little more than 10 square miles to the American-held Ryukyu area, including Okinawa and nearby Kerama Islands. It would also protect the western flank of Okinawa where capture of 802 more prisoners boosted Jap losses for the campaign to 111,351.

(Kume, shaped like a dog's head pointed toward the China coast, is due west of Okinawa's capital, Naha, and within 300 miles of Formosa.

(On the west side, from the tip of the dog's nose southeastward, its coastline is eight miles long. One height on the north end rises over 990 feet, and another near the south end is approximately 920 feet. An all-weather highway traverses a large part of the island.)

The new bag of prisoners increased the captive total to 9498.

One group was taken by 10th Army mopup squads when caught wading, neck deep in surf off the southern end of Okinawa, trying to sneak north to become guerrillas.

In the northern sector, Japanese hideout remnants ambushed and killed six Americans.

Aussies Seize Borneo Oil Field

MANILA, June 27 (INS) — Australian forces expanded their control of the rich oil centers of northwestern Borneo today with the seizure of Miri and the adjoining airdrome.

Frontline dispatches revealed that they overran the vital oil-producing fields at Miri late Sunday.

British Election Gets Rowdy

LONDON, June 27 (AP) — A milk bottle was hurled through the window of Brendan Bracken's car last night as the First Lord of the Admiralty, seeking re-election as a Conservative, was leaving a London campaign meeting described by newspapers as "the rowdiest yet held in the constituency."

A. V. Alexander, Bracken's Laborite predecessor as First Lord, said he almost missed the deadline for filing his nomination because someone had tampered with the carburtor of his automobile.

The car of Sir William Beveridge, Liberal author of the social security plan, also broke down mysteriously while he was en route to a speaking engagement.

B-29s Smash Aero Gas Plant

GUAM, June 27 (AP) — The Marianas Superfortress Fleet has added Japan's principal remaining aviation gasoline refinery to its list of bombed industrial targets.

Fifty Fortresses struck the Utsube river oil refinery near Yokkaichi, 18 miles southwest of Nagoya, before midnight — less than 14 hours after 500 other B-29s pounded 10 aircraft, gun and ammunition plants in the greatest demolition sweep ever made against Japan

SPAIN TO GET SUGAR

WASHINGTON, June 27 (AP) —Spain has been allocated 120,000,000 pounds of sugar this year from West Indies production, War Food Administration officials said today.

Home Town Greets President Truman

KANSAS CITY, June 27 (AP)—President Truman, making his first visit to his native Missouri since he became chief executive, landed here today for a brief visit, en route to Washington where he will present the text of the United Nations charter to the Senate for ratification.

Truman's plane landed at the Fairfax airport in Kansas City, Kas., a 12:30 p. m. Only a brief welcoming committee, composed of old friends from the President's home town, Independence, Mo., and his daughter, Mary Margaret, and his brother, Vivian, were at the airport.

Mary Margaret jumped into the plane and greeted her father with a kiss.

Five minutes after the plane landed the group was en route to Independence where Mrs. Truman waited the President's arrival.

Earlier plans to have the President make the drive to Independence in a closed car were changed at his request to enable the homefolk to get a glimpse of him. He had asked that no elaborate parade be held.

The route took him through the business districts of both Kan-Citys and out 15th st. to Independence where he was to hold an important press conference this afternoon and make a public address to his townspeople tonight.

Mr. Truman took off in his C-54 luxury transport plane from Salt Lake City at 8:09 a. m.

His press secretary, Charles G. Ross, would not reveal the nature of the imminent disclosure in advance of the President's departure.

"All I can say is that it is one of the most important announcements he has yet made," Ross told reporters.

Stettinius in Capital, Urges Ratification

WASHINGTON, June 27 (AP) —Secretary of State Stettinius and other members of the United States delegation to the San Francisco conference were welcomed back to Washington today by the Senate foreign relations committee.

"We have completed the United Nations' charter," Stettinius said. "We have just begun to make a United Nations peace.

"The next step is ratification by the United States and a sufficient number of other countries to bring the world organization into being and set it to work. This cannot come too soon."

16 Jap Craft KO'd In U. S. Blockade

MANILA, June 27 (INS)—Destruction of 16 more Japanese vessels—mostly small cargo craft —in continuance of the American blockade of shipping lanes from Formosa to the Indies was announced today.

Japs in Philippines Cracking Up

By SPENCER DAVIS

MANILA, June 27 (AP)—Organized Jap resistance in the Philippines rapidly is approaching an end. Less than 20 miles separated American soldiers and Filipino guerrillas converging from north and south toward a junction in the flat river bottom above Tuguegarao, Gen. MacArthur reported today.

At least half of an estimated 20,000 Japanese on north Luzon were withdrawing to the mountainous wilderness of the Sierra Madres

On Mindanao, AP Correspondent Richard Bergholz reported harried Japanese have reached their last prepared positions in the Talomo-Davao river plain. Bergholz said it was obvious that the strong, cohesive leadership which has characterized the Japanese retreat was beginning to break.

Relentless troops of Maj. Gen. Roscoe B. Woodruff's 24th Infantry Division drove the enemy off Mount Manoy, one of the best spots for a strong Japanese stand, then smashed ahead to take Tamogan village.

Other Eighth Army troops on Mindanao hopped up the north coast to the Agusan river, whose upper reaches probably are a haven for Japanese driven out of the central section of the island.

OPA Radio Writer Charged With Red Propaganda

WASHINGTON, June 27 (INS)—An investigator for the House Un-American Activities Committee testified today he had been threatened with bodily harm and offered $5000 to call off an investigation of the Office of Price Administration.

The investigator, George McDavitt of Pittsburgh, told the committee the man who identified himself as merely "a friend" threatened to "smear" his face if he continued his investigation

McDavitt made his disclosure ts the committee renewed its hearing of charges that Tex Weiner, a radio supervisor for the New York OPA regional office, wrote "subversive scripts which were broadcast.

McDavitt testified that in his opinion Weiner was following the Communist line.

He quoted Mrs. Blanche Talbot, identified as an agent's playwright in New York, of informing him that Weiner "was consistently promoting Communist ideals and said 'Some day I'll be a big man in this country and will be ambassador to Russia.' "

Ernie Adamson, Committee Council, said Weiner told Mrs. Talbot that "Take the Bible for instance; that's one of the most immoral books ever written."

On another occasion, McDavitt testified, Weiner wrote into a script the following dialogue, regarding a hotel rent schedule which OPA regulations require to be hung in all hotels:

"Question: 'Where will we hang it?' "

"Answer: 'Put it in the Bible. No one looks there.' "

McDavitt testified that this was the new Communist line.

"The script tends to antagonize people against landlords and business," he said.

McDavitt's testimony was brought out by Rep. Thomas (R.) of New Jersey, a member of the old "Dies" committee.

"Did anyone ever ask you to stop the investigation?" he queried.

"Yes," answered McDavitt. "They spoke of $5000, referring to my financial status. I said I wasn't interested. They said, 'We will smear your face so your wife won't know you.' "

The incident, he related, occurred three week ago.

"Who is the 'They'?" inquired Rep. Robinson (D.) Utah.

"I received a phone call," explained McDavitt.

McDavitt also testified that a member of Congress, later identified as Rep. Peterson (D.) Fla. a committee member told him:

" 'I was visited today by an assistant of Bowles (Chester Bowles, OPA Administrator), who proceeded to say that an investigator from this committee took out two girls from the OPA office and got them intoxicated'."

Peterson then interjected that he was the Congressman referred to and that the investigator was McDavitt. Bowles' assistant, he added, was Zenas Potter, legislative liaison man for OPA.

"I didn't say 'intoxicated'," Peterson remarked. "I said he just took them out for a few cocktails."

Peterson added that the whole thing was "immaterial" to the investigation.

Nip Charity

SAN FRANCISCO, June 27 (AP)—A Japanese broadcast said today residents of Japan's industrial cities bombed from their homes by Superfortresses had been sent relief supplies by their countrymen in occupied Shanghai.

The Shanghai shipment included clothing, bedding, soap and paper, said the broadcast.

Home Laundry

WITH U. S. SEVENTIETH DIVISION, Germany, June 27 (AP)—Cpl. Mason McCoy of Portland, Ore., claims the world's long distance record for getting his laundry done.

Last March, packing souvenirs to send home, he put in a worn pair of socks as filler. Two months later the socks came back with a note from his wife:

"Please send me some more things to wash. It makes life seem more normal with your washing to do."

MRS. IMOGENE STEVENS, ACCUSED ARMY WIFE
"Texas Bombshell" Had Ten Beers, Inquest Told

Imogene Faces Court July 30

BRIDGEPORT, Ct., June 27 (AP)—Prosecutor Edmund L. Morrison of the New Canaan municipal court announced today that Imogene Stevens, wife of an Army paratroop major, would be arraigned July 30 on a charge of manslaughter in the slaying of a young submarine sailor.

The 24-year-old black-haired wife of Maj. G. Ralsey Stevens, 3d, the prosecutor said, will be formally presented before Municipal Judge Dana S. Hawthorn.

Morrison's announcement came as the family of the slain sailor, Albert Kovacs, 19-year-old veteran of the Pacific, postponed his funeral for 24 hours because of a naval inquiry into the shooting.

The youth, whom Mrs. Stevens told police she shot late Saturday night at the home of a neighbor, was to have been buried today, but a Naval board headed by Lt. George Bratt, Jr., USNR, did not release the sailor's body in time.

Legal experts pointed out that because a finding is expected within the next few days from Coroner Theodore E. Steiber, Mrs. Stevens held in $50,000 bail since the shooting may never be arraigned in municipal court.

The coroner will report his finding to State Attorney Lorin Willis who under Connecticut procedure may transfer the case immediately to Superior Court on a bench warrant.

James Kovacs, a brother of the slain sailor, testified before Coroner Steiber yesterday that Mrs. Stevens shot his brother without warning when the brothers had gone to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Milton, neighbors of Mrs. Stevens, to call on Faith Coombs, engaged by the Miltons to care for their children.

In Norwalk today Carol Coombs, sister of Faith, cleared up one point in the testimony of the slain sailor's brother. James had testified that Albert helped himself to a glass of beer from the Milton refrigerator and Carol said that was not unusual because Albert was well known to the Miltons, and had visited with Faith many times at the Milton place when home on leave.

It was learned Mrs. Stevens had cabled her husband in Germany asking that he return as soon as possible.

Mrs. Stevens was reported today to have recovered her composure, which she lost during yesterday's inquest, and to be in better spirits.

Efforts to raise the $50,000 bail were being made, it was learned, but had not yet been successful.

Bones for Solons Arizona's Plan

WASHINGTON, June 27 (AP)—Bones for congressmen started piling into Washington via the U. S. mails this morning.

A dozen hefty unwrapped soupshanks, with stamps and address cards attached, were delivered to the office of Rep. Harless (D.) of Arizona, while another array reached his colleague, Sen. Hayden (D.) of Arizona.

"At least," Harless commented, "I know what a soup bone looks like now."

The senator and congressman said they understood the cleanpicked bones were sent by a number of Arizona restaurant owners as protest against OPA meat rationing regulations.

War Food Losses Run To Millions

WASHINGTON, June 27 (INS)—A House committee charged today that inefficiency, waste and unbusinesslike practices in the War Food Administration has resulted in loss to the government of probably many millions of dollars from food spoilage. The charges were contained in an appropriations sub-committee report to the House of hearings and committee conclusions following an investigation of food spoilages.

The committee investigator charged:

1—"Officials of the WFA have been extremely lax in the supervision of the power warehousing of commodities in storage, resulting in a tremendous amount of food spoilage.

2—"Financial and inventory records are inaccurate, do not reflect the true conditions of the WFA, and any statement or schedule prepared from such records is unreliable in that an undetermined amount, but amounting to several million dollars, is carried as an asset in the unbilled accounts receivable which are worthless and never did have any value.

"The total losses from spoilage reflected in financial records as of Dec. 31, 1944, were $842,910, whereas the investigation of only a few items reflects losses approximating 20 million dollars.

3—"Some officials and employes of the WFA have knowingly furnished reports and made statements to congressional committees which were false.

4. "Certain activities of officials of the WFA have been, to say the least, very unbusinesslike and have resulted in unnecessary waste of public money.

5. "Officials have followed a lax personnel policy in that persons have been employed in responsible positions with known criminal records."

In presenting the investigator's testimony, the committee stated that it "as a whole has not formulated any opinion" in respect to all his charges.

The committee stated, however, "the records of WFA are not sufficiently complete and accurate to enable us to determine the extent of the loss which has thus occurred, but the evidence submitted justifies the feeling that it has been considerable, probably amounting to many millions of dollars."

Egg Famine Due to Early Price Blunder

By WARREN STEVENS

It's not news that there has been a terrific shortage of eggs in Boston markets for many weeks.

No one has to tell the housewife who has plodded vainly from store to store that this one-time staple of the family breakfast table and nourishing substitute for meat has virtually disappeared.

But it is news that the bureaucrats for more than two years have failed to correct a blunder made when ceiling prices first were set on eggs, and only now are flinging about desperately for a means to bring egg supplies back into normal channels of trade.

OPA
Black Market
And YOU

They will have to take speedy action, or there won't be an egg available in New England by fall.

This may sound fantastic until on realizes that poultry farms throughout New England are being stripped of laying birds by black market agents.

Every available bird is being snapped up, and the greedy illegal buyers are paying prices far above ceilings, even for young stock upon which the future egg supply depends.

Ask Parents to Attend Play Board Hearing

Thomas J. Turley, chairman of the city recreation board, today urged all parents of Boston concerned with juvenile recreation to appear tomorrow at the city council meeting at 2 p. m., City Hall.

He said their presence would indicate their support of Mayor Kerrigan's order for $144,000 to pay salaries of playground instructors.

Cops Rescue Boys Risking Lives for Pup

What's a mongrel pup's life worth?

It's worth risking your own life, Walter Charm, 13, and Lawrence Shulman, 12, demonstrated today in Winthrop.

Walter, who lives at River rd., Winthrop, and Lawrence, of Hawthorne ave., were strolling along Shore dr. near Neptune ave., when they heard the wail of a pup 100 yards out in the raging surf.

"Dog in surf," the kids flashed to Winthrop police.

"Boy and dog in surf!" a flash came to police a few minutes later.

"Two boys and dog in surf!" came another message.

Officer Edward McLaughlin of Winthrop and Officers David Kurland and John Danahy of the Metropolitan District Commission rushed to the scene and found the boys shouting for help in the angry undertow and pounding waves, 30 feet off shore.

The officers all plunged in, swam to the boys and dragged them to shore. They drove them to Community Hospital, Winthrop, where they were treated for immersion.

The lads taken care of, the cops tore back to save the life of the dog.

"Oh, him?" said a passerby. "He finally got in safely while you were away. Some waves threw him nearer shore. No one knows who he belongs to. He just shook himself and trotted down the street as though nothing had happened."

3-Cent Cigaret Tax Favored

With only one dissenter, the Senate ways and means committee today favorably reported a measure which would impose a permanent three cents tax on cigarets in place of the present temporary two cent levy.

Sen. James A. Peckham, Rep., of Wellesley was the lone opponent.

The committee also submitted an unfavorable report on a bill advocating establishment of a state board of chiropractors.

Boy Killed, Parents End Lives

WATERTOWN, N. Y., June 27 (AP)—The bodies of the parents of a 15-year-old boy who was killed in a fall at Ithaca June 16 were found today in a carbon-monoxide filled tent beside their automobile parked on the shore of Lake Ontario, Sheriff Brayton Peck reported.

The sheriff said a letter mailed last night to a Cape Vincent undertaker, signed by Kenneth H. Bartlett, 52, of Ithaca, indicated the couple had been despondent over the death of their son, Franklin, killed in a fall into Cascadilla gorge.

The letter, said Peck, instructed the undertaker, Thomas M. Mannigan, to have the bodies cremated and sent to the family undertaker at Lenox, Mass.

Peck said a rubber blanket had been placed over the exhaust of the Bartlett automobile so so to lead the fumes into the pup tent. The motor was still running when the sheriff arrived.

The sheriff quoted the letter as stating:

"We didn't wish to hurt our Ithaca neighbors by using our garage for our departure. Our son always loved The Point. As we own the property we decided on The Point. We are taking the carbon monoxide route."

Cape Hard Hit as Storm Lashes All N. E. Coast

Pounding rains and the 60-mile-an-hour winds that lashed the New England seaboard throughout the night took a heavy toll of fruit crops in Massachusetts, piled yachts ashore in Marblehead, paralyzed power facilities in some Cape Cod towns and overturned trees weakened by the hurricane of last September.

WILL PLAY NO MORE—The yacht Playmore, tossed high on Wollaston Beach by the northeaster, was smashed to kindling in the high wind which accompanied torrential rains throughout the coastal sections of New England. All along the coast, from the Cape northward, boats and yachts were damaged by the storm.
INP by Lester MacLellan

The Cape, Nantucket and Martha's Vineyard were still being whipped by high winds today, with gusts as high as 70 miles an hour not infrequent. In 24 hours Nantucket was punished by a rainfall of nearly five inches.

Boston had almost an inch and one-quarter in the same period.

The New England Telephone Co. reported 10,000 telephones out of order, 7000 of them on Cape Cod. Service was interrupted on 67 long distance circuits.

Damage to craft moored in Marblehead harbor was expected to exceed $150,000, more than was experienced in the hurricanes of 1938 and 1944. The gale winds battered moorings and hurled large boats against seawalls. A blow of such velocity had not been predicted for along the coast and yacht owners had not taken the precautions they did for the hurricane.

At the Squantum and Wollaston yacht clubs 40 boats were driven ashore and a large cabin cruiser owned by Arthur Small was wrecked.

Two New Bedford fishing draggers, the Lois and Sea Buddy, carrying two men each, were reported overdue and Coast Guard vessels were searching for them.

Another New Bedford dragger, the William Chesbrough, with five aboard, was off West Chop, Martha's Vineyard today, buffeted by continuing gale winds, but a Coast Guard craft was standing by. The Chesbrough did not show a distress signal.

The dragger Intrepid III was grounded on the beach at Sandwich, half a mile from the canal entrance but its crew of three swam ashore through heavy surf.

The Coast Guard cutter Hornbeam towed the fishing boat Seabody into port after the fishermen asked for help near Pollock Rip, Cape Cod. Another fishing boat was towed into port at Maine.

The weather bureau here forecast winds of 35 to 45 miles an hour along the New England coast today, diminishing tonight, but storm warnings still were posted from Eastport, Me., to Block Island, as were warnings to small craft. Winds were expected to diminish tonight, with the day clearing as it progressed.

It was scheduled to be fair tonight in Boston and the vicinity, with the lowest temperature about 62 degrees. The prediction for tomorrow was fair and warmer, with gentle winds.

In Marblehead harbor, particularly vulnerable to northeasters, six boats were blown ashore. They included the 50-footer Barbara, two schooners, the Zulu and Allouette; the 60-foot ketch Mohawk, the 40-foot yawl Eran and an auxiliary schooner, a 50-footer. The last two were piled on the rocks near Hotel Rockmere.

On Cape Cod there was no electric power after one o'clock this morning in Wellfleet, Brewster, Yarmouth, part of Barnstable and the Oyster Harbors summer colony.

Fire destroyed the $10,000 summer home of Charles B. Wyman of Arnold ave., Wellesley, at Barnstable, shortly after 3 a. m. Yesterday workmen had completed extensive repairs done to it by last year's hurricane and the Wyman family had intended to move in today.

In West Dennis, where carpenters were restoring the steeple of the Methodist Church, wrecked by the 1944 hurricane, a huge staging was blown off.

Heaviest damage on the Cape was visited upon the fruit crops and market gardens. Farm bureau officials said it would amount to many thousands of dollars. Apple trees which had withstood the hurricane of last year were toppled over by the score.

Sign boards were blown down in Revere.

2 Youths Admit Market Break

Two Charlestown youths, Ralph Yandle, 17, of Sullivan st., and Frederick R. Blakie, 18, of Main st., pleaded guilty in Charlestown court today to charges of breaking and entering and larceny and were released in $100 personal recognizance for disposition July 27.

Earlier, at the police headquarters lineup, the pair had admitted breaking into a market in Main st. last June 11 and taking $1400 from a safe after being "tipped off" to its location by a former employe. They also involved a 19-year-old Burlington youth in the disposal of the money.

Jobless Pay Boost Bill Signed

Gov. Tobin today signed into law a measure increasing unemployment benefits from a maximum of $18 weekly to $21, and provided that payments be made for 23 weeks instead of 20 allowed under existing law.

He also signed a bill establishing a five-man appeal board to hear grievances of state workers. The board will consist of a permanent chairman appointed by the Governor, the state director of personnel, state Civil Service commissioner, a representative of the aggrieved worker and another representing the department head involved.

Arlington Girl Fights for Life On 12th Birthday

Barbara Hatfield of Freeman st., Arlington, will observe her 12th birthday tomorrow without the usual merriment and joy which attend that adventure in living. She will observe it by fighting to live.

The blue-eyed little girl will be surrounded by nurses and doctors, instead of her chums. Six months ago she began to suffer nosebleeds. Their increasing frequency after June 2 alarmed her mother, Mrs. Lillian Carfagno. Medical examination revealed her daughter was suffering from a rare type of anemia.

It has called for many transfusions of an also rare type of blood — ORH Negative — at Children's Hospital, where she has been a patient nearly three weeks. Her mother has been at her side almost constantly.

Barbara's diploma of graduation from Hardy grammar school, Arlington, was presented to her at the hospital. She wants to enter the seventh grade at Arlington Junior High School East in September.

Doctors and nurses are bound she shall, even though her physical condition is officially down as "critical" today.

Tired Burglars

MILFORD, June 27 (AP)—Thieves entered the salesroom of the Sherman Motor Co. at 269 Main st., early today, and stole 37 tires valued at $800. This is the 11th time the salesroom has been burglarized.

Hub GI Overseas Granted Divorce

Although he is now overseas with the Army, John A. Hansen of Brookside ave., Jamaica Plain, was granted a divorce today from Pauletta A. Hansen of Hyannis.

Only testimony was from Hansen's sister, Mrs. Frances Petersen, also of Brookside ave., and a disposition from the soldier's ill mother, Mrs. Annie Hansen, of the same address. The decree gave the soldier custody of his two children.

Witness and deposition charged that on three occasions the wife went away with different sailors for from four days to a week.

WASHINGTON, June 27 (AP)—The WLB ruled today that employers may give white-collar workers Saturdays off during the summer without applying to the board for approval.

Hub Pier Strike Now in 3d Day

Protesting Navy refusal to hire "standbys" in the loading and unloading of transports docking at Commonwealth Pier with returning servicemen, longshoremen of the International Longshoremen's Ass'n (AFL) went into the third day of an unauthorized walkout today.

The loading and unloading of ships has not been affected, however, as the Navy pressed enlisted personnel into service as soon as the regular longshoremen walked off the job.

Naval officials explained that the walkout is an intra-union matter which must be settled inside the organization.

Pope Sees Devastated Lands In Peril of Mass Violence

VATICAN CITY, June 27 (AP)—Pope Pius XII, in his audience yesterday with Jean A. Brunner, U. S. Commander of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, said that "strong, even violent reaction" may sweep through the masses in war devastated countries.

The Pontiff added that men of judgment and leadership "should protect such masses against themselves."

The Pope's comments were published by L'Osservatore Romano today.

"If any group of men is set on reaching the coveted goal of peace," the Pope said, "it should be the veterans of modern foreign wars.

"They know what it means to be carried thousands of miles away from family and friends, to have their studies or business careers or ambitions broken perhaps forever. There never will be, there cannot be peace in the world until men turn to God, unless charity and justice are secure and defended where necessary against the assaults of overpowering physical might."

Mrs. Kennedy Receives Hero Son's Navy Cross

The Navy Cross awarded to the late Lt. Joseph Patrick Kennedy, Jr., USNR, son of former Ambassador Kennedy, who was killed on a volunteer mission over France last year, was presented posthumously today to his mother, Mrs. Rose Fitzgerald Kennedy, in a simple ceremony at First Naval District headquarters.

R. Adm. Felix X. Gygax gave the Navy's highest decoration for heroism to Mrs. Fitzgerald while her husband and four children looked on.

Watching the ceremony with their father were Patricia, Jean, Teddy and Robert, the latter a Navy V-12 trainee at Harvard.

The citation accompanying the Cross read:

"For extraordinary heroism and courage in aerial flight as pilot of a United States Navy Liberator bomber on Aug. 12, 1944.

"Well knowing the extreme dangers involved and totally unconcerned for his own safety, Lt. Kennedy unhesitatingly volunteered to conduct an exceptionally hazardous and special operational mission.

"Intrepid and daring in his tactics, and with unwavering confidence in the vital importance of his task, he willingly risked his life in the supreme measure of service and, by his great personal valor and fortitude in carrying out a perilous undertaking, sustained and enhanced the finest traditions of the United States Naval service."

The 29-year-old hero was reported missing Aug. 12, 1944, and has since been officially declared dead.

Lt. Kennedy entered the service Oct. 15, 1941 as a Naval Reserve aviation cadet and was commissioned an ensign in April, 1942. He was assigned to a patrol squadron in January, 1943, and in May of that year he was promoted to lieutenant, junior grade. His promotion to lieutenant was made in July, 1944.

He was authorized to wear the American Defense Service Medal and the European-Africa-Middle Eastern Area Campaign Medal before he went to his death.

The Navy recently paid further tribute to his valor by naming a destroyer under construction at Fore River shipyard in his honor.

His brother, Lt. John Kennedy, recently medically discharged from the Naval Reserve, was awarded the Navy and Marine Corps Medal for heroism in rescuing a crew member of his PT boat in the South Pacific.

Aviation Grows, Airports Lag, Hub Group Told

Airport development has lagged behind while aviation has made tremendous advances because of the war, Rep. Jennings Randolph, of West Virginia, declared today in an address at the Aeronautic Ass'n of Boston luncheon at the Parker House.

Randolph, an ardent aviation advocate, is author of a bill pending in Congress which would provide $1,000,000,000 of federal funds to be matched by state and local money to provide for airport construction throughout the nation in the next 10 years.

Citing the estimate of civil aeronautics officials that there would be 400,000 civilian aircraft in the nation within 10 years after the war, Randolph declared his belief the figure would be nearer a million and a huge number of airports would be necessary.

"We must remember," he said, "that for many years our airport construction has been largely part of the work-relief program and later the defense program.

"We approach a time when civil aviation is so important a part of peacetime economy that airport development is a necessity.

"That phase of aviation is upon us, sooner than expected, because conflict has always speeded inventive energy and improved methods. The peace will find aviation a decade ahead of its time. While this means of transportation has leaped ahead, airport construction has lagged."

4373 Happy Vets Welcomed by Hub

To a welcome which has become daily and standard, 4376 more veterans of the European war, 189 from New England, stepped on United States soil again today with docking at Commonwealth Pier of the USS Gen. Richardson, Navy transport.

The happy lads, their enthusiasm dimmed not a bit by overnight confinement on shipboard during a drenching northeaster, left immediately for Camp Myles Standish and eventual furloughs.

On board were RAMPs (liberated prisoners of war), surplus personnel returned home under the point system, nurses, WACs and 13 USO troupers. The number of wounded was 676.

Among the wounded taken off the transport was Sgt. William J. Murphy, Jr., of Nottinghill rd., Brighton, son of the Brighton High School football coach. Entering the service in May, 1944, he went overseas last November and was wounded in both legs by mortar fire outside Cologne last February. He is married and the father of three children.

WASHINGTON, June 27 (INS)—Senate and House conferees today killed the House amendment to the price control extension bill that would have made the incoming agriculture secretary, Rep. Clinton Anderson (D.) of New Mexico, a virtual food czar.

The conferees completed their work and prepared to send the revised bill back to the Senate and House.

But they extended provisions of the existing Bankhead amendment of the present law to pricing of processed foods, thus giving Anderson a veto power over orders pertaining to packing industries.

Thompson, using emergency powers, named Dr. John M. Wilcox of Woburn to the position June 19 and criticized Gov. Tobin for his delay in filling the post, vacant since Dr. Greene's death, April 6.

William Worthy of Boston, named last week to succeed Dr. Norbet A. Wilhelm as trustee of Walter E. Fernald School, Waltham, today notified the Governor he was unwilling to accept the position "now held by a man of outstanding service."

Was Bopeep's Lost Sheep Found in Soldier's Auto?

LAWRENCE, June 27—One of those sheep Little Bopeep lost so long ago turned up here today, jumped into an automobile parked by Pvt. Leo Petrauskas, 26, of Comet rd., Methuen, knotted a handkerchief around its neck and committed suicide.

Police incline to the Bopeep theory because Petrauskas says it wasn't his sheep and he didn't even know it was in the back seat. Mrs. Petrauskas, who was sitting in the car in Union st. while her husband tinkered with a dead engine, said no one was more surprised than she when two cops walked up and told her, "There's a sheep in the back seat."

It wasn't sers, she said, and she hadn't seen it get in, although it was 4 a. m. and anything could have happened.

The sheep had a collar annd chain around its neck, in addition to the handkerchief noose. The car turned out to have been borrowed from Lester Hill of Salem, N. H.

Pvt. Petrauskas did not have furlough papers to satisfy police in district court, Judge John J. Darcy allowed Mrs. Petrauskas to go for them after she said they were in a rooming house. She came back with a pass dated 1943.

The couple pleaded not guilty to drunkenness and larceny of one sheep from a person unknown. The case was continued to Friday, with Pvt. Petrauskas under $250 bail, and his wife released under the vigilance of a probation officer.

Sea Shell Bankroll Eases Way for Shangra-La Group

By RALPH MORTON

MOUNT HAGEN STATION, New Guinea, June 25 (delayed) (AP)—Lend-lease finally percolated to New Guinea's wilds—and dripped out 40 pounds of sea shells, first-rate currency in these innocent parts.

The 40-pound bag of sea shells was the gift of the Commonwealth of Australia, which thought they might come in handy in dealing with the natives of Shangri-La, hosts to the Army WAC and 14 compatriots stranded in that hidden New Guinea valley.

Maj. Sir George Greathead presented the shells to the air force officers to be dropped to WAC Cpl. Margaret Hastings and her companions.

There was enough mother of pearl in the bag to buy whole harems of Shangri-La wives, and uncounted pigs, which the natives reputedly raise to the size of donkeys.

In dropping the sea shell currency to Miss Hastings, her two comrades who survived an Army transport plane crash May 13 and their 11 parachuted rescuers, the Australians warned of inflation, a bear market in wives and danger to the Shangri-La economy.

Meanwhile, expert glider personnel and new equipment arrived on Biak island, where final tests will be made on the use of gliders for effecting the rescue.

If successful, a glider will be dropped Tuesday afternoon and the survivors towed out by an Army transport plane the following day.

Emmey Goering in Rickety Castle Bides Hubby's Trial

By HOWARD COWAN

(Substituting for Hal Boyle)

NEUHAUS, Germany (AP,—Frau Emmy Goering has shut herself up in the rickety old lastle which broods over this little farming hamlet while she awaits the outcome of her husband's trial as a war criminal.

With Joseph Frick of Flemington, N. J., I spent the better part of an hour talking to her and a governess, Mgda.

There are eight persons with Frau Goering, including her child, Edda, and her sister, Elsa Sonnemann Altmann.

The owner of an inn has hauled bedsteads and other pieces of furniture to the six rooms occupied by the Goering party. There are still no curtains on the windows.

The castle has electric lights, running water and modern plumbing. There is no fuel for heating.

"We all do cooking, cleaning and washing," said the governess. "We brought enough food to last four weeks."

Frau Goering said she had heard nothing from her husband since he surrendered to the U. S. 36th Division.

The Mercedes sedan which brought the Geoering party to Neuhaus has disappeared and they have no transportation. Frau Goering has not been out of the castue since she arrived.

Sgt. Donald Rexilius of Ceresco, Neb., said the guard is more for their protection than to keep them from running away. The reason—folks in the town think the town wouldn't have been shot up if it hadn't been for the Goerings' home.

"They don't like them," said Rexilius.

Captured Jap Tells of Hara-Kiri Rites by Okinawa General, Aide

By AL DOPKING AND ROBERT GEIGER

10TH ARMY HEADQUARTERS, Okinawa, June 27 (AP)—The bodies of the Japanese commanding general on Okinawa and his chief of staff, who committed hara-kiri, have been found in shallow rock graves.

Col. Cecil W. Nist, 24th Army Corps staff officer, said the bodies have been identified positively as those of Lt. Gen. Mitsuru Ushijima, commanding general of the 32nd Japanese Army, and Lt. Gen. Isamu Cho.

A captured Jap cook told this story:

At 3 a. m. June 22, he was preparing breakfast when an orderly whispered that Ushijima and Cho were going to commit seppuku, Japanese term for honorable suicide.

Forty minutes later, both generals appeared. Accompanied by aides, they were followed by members of the staff to a narrow ledge at the seaward entrance of a huge headquarters cave!

A heavy comforter was placed on the ledge. Over it was laid a white sheet, symbolic of death.

Ushijima knelt with his knees on the sheet. Cho knelt on his left. Both faced the Pacific ocean. Narrowness of the ledge prevented them from facing north toward the imperial palace.

An aide held two knives, each half wrapped in white cloth. An adjutant, with drawn saber, stood on Ushijima's right. Both generals bared their abdomens.

As Ushijima plunged a knife into his stomach, the adjutant swung his saber downwards, severing the general's spinal column. He tumbled forward dead.

Cho went through an identical ceremony.

Army Instals New Bedside Radio

BATTLE CREEK, Mich., June 27 (AP)—The Army's Percy Jones General Hospital here has a new bedside radio system which probably will be installed in 29 other Army hospitals.

Individual radio receivers are operated 14 hours a day, with choice of four programs. Receivers are five-inch diameter flat plastic discs.

The radio is tuned in by a wall switch. Programs are changed by jerking a cord. Volume is controlled by stuffing the receiver under the pillow or pulling it out.

Daytime radio dramas have no place on the system. One channel is set aside for classical and religious music, another for popular music, a third for variety shows and the fourth for news, hospital and educational programs.

Dorothy Kilgallen writes "Broadway" every day for the Boston American.

DETROIT, June 27 (AP)—Because Mayor Orville L. Hubbard of suburban Dearborn talked to inductees leaving this morning he faces trial July 6 on charges of violating the city's "gag" ordinance.

FM Radio Sets Face Rewiring

WASHINGTON, June 27 (INS)—The Federal Communications Commission today announced the adoption of a frequency band from 92 to 106 megacycles for FM, high-frequency broadcasting.

This means that the 395,000 FM sets now in the hands of the public will eventually have to be converted for the higher frequency.

The shift to higher radio frequencies was made by the FCC to gain an "interference-free service."

Any Ice Today?

BELTON, Me., June 27 (AP)—Housewives here will get ice this summer if the 10-year-old boy and his $2 goat hold out.

The town's regular iceman quit. Dickie took over and delivers about 450 pounds of ice a day.

Dickie's problem—three or four milkshakes a day and extra feed for the goat eat up a lot of the profits.

Your help wanted!

New York's "critical" hotel room shortage isn't a myth. Right now it's mighty serious. And it's going to get worse.

Already the boys are coming back from Europe—many on brief leave before heading out into the Pacific to finish the job out there. Hundreds of thousands of them will be returning each month from now on.

New York is glad to see them . . . proud to have them . . . wants them to enjoy themselves while they're here. They've earned it! They've been fighting for us and deserve the best during their short visit home.

So we appeal to you again—please don't come to New York unless it's absolutely necessary! And before coming, please write for reservations at least one week in advance. Specify date and hour of arrival and duration of your stay—we'll let you know at once whether or not we can accommodate you.

Also—please cancel reservations promptly when plans change—check out early on departure day.

Bowles Sees OPA Rule Easing

WASHINGTON, June 27 (AP)—Price Administrator Chester Bowles informed Congress today he is "anxious to get away from wartime controls as quickly as possible" and predicted many relaxations in the next year.

He told the House postwar planning committee there may be some erasure of controls "more quickly than you think."

However, he added that inflationary pressures would be the greatest in the next year, and that any relaxation of price ceilings must begin on a selective basis as the supply of various products come into balance with demand.

Postal Pay Raise Bill Goes to Conference

By DAVID SENTNER
Boston Evening American Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON, June 27—The postal pay increase bill was passed unanimously by the Senate which appointed conferees to iron out discrepancies on overtime provisions in the House measure.

This first legislation providing for general basic salary increases in the postal service since 1925 calls for an average $400 annual pay raise.

It also establishes uniform procedures for computation of compensation and removes many inequities existing in the postal service for 20 years.

The House measure has overtime provisions slightly more favorable than those in the Senate version.

The annual cost of the measure is expected to be approximately $150,000,000, including $53,000,000 salary increases. The remainder is mostly attributed to overtime expense, expected to be negligible after the war ends conclusion of hostilities.

No Eggs by Fall Is Prospect

broilers in tremendous numbers and the only possible result is that the egg and hatching supply, menaced for two years, is headed toward complete destruction.

Farmers will continue to sacrifice their present and future egg output, just so long as the present OPA ceiling on eggs remains in effect and the black market in chicken flourishes.

Under present OPA regulations the ceiling price on eggs fluctuates from week to week.

The bureaucrats figured that egg production had seasonal rises and decreases, and that the low point of production in November should be used as the basis for setting the ceiling price of 59½c a dozen.

More than two years ago, Leavitt C. Parsons, publisher of the Northeastern Poultryman, pointed out to OPA the inadequacy of this formula insofar as it affected the Northeastern egg market, which includes New England and most of the middle Atlantic states.

He proposed the November figure be set as a ceiling, but that the 59½ cent figure remain stable the year round.

He also suggested division of the nation into three regional areas—east of the Alleghenies, between the Alleghenies and the Rockies, and the Pacific coast—explaining that the distinct economic and sociological differences of these areas warrant consideration in determining ceilings.

He proposed expressing the maximum ceiling in terms of weight, using a three-ounce margin between large, medium and pullet sizes, as a yardstick for setting ceilings.

His suggestions made sense, and the OPA egg order was held up for two months, during which his proposition was studied before it was turned down.

The reason it was turned down then, an OPA official told Parsons, was that it "SEEMED TOO SIMPLE TO WORK."

Only a few weeks ago the OPA turned to Parsons when it was confronted with the realization the egg shortage was not going to solve itself.

Parsons referred them to the program he had proposed two years ago.

It's still a good program and it still can work. Even now it is being considered by OPA Administrator Bowles.

It certainly wouldn't be any worse than the present system, which conscientious poultrymen believe is directly responsible for the current practice of selling young birds for meat instead of reserving them for the egg supply.

It stands to reason, too, that a year-around ceiling price will assure a profit to all hands. Certainly, no manipulator can corner the poultry market and induce an egg shortage as long as there is a profit in egg production.

Retailers, too, are convinced there must be a rapid and definite adjustment away from the present "stepladder" ceilings.

Railroad Workers In Strike Over Food

The foreman's efforts to find meat, beans or other foodstuffs were fruitless.

STRENGTH MEANS SAFETY

GEN. DWIGHT D. EISENHOWER gave the American people a most solemn warning in his recent New York City address when he admonished his countrymen against being diverted from a policy of adequate national preparedness for defense by international peace movements, however sincerely and hopefully the latter may be undertaken.

General Eisenhower believes that international efforts for the peaceful settlement of differences should be supported and participated in by all peace-loving nations, including the United States.

But he does NOT believe the success of such efforts can be taken for granted, or that the instruments of national defense can be safely neglected or discarded on the hopeful assumption that they will never be needed.

Drawing upon his own recent experience in the European war, General Eisenhower remarked:

"From here to my headquarters in Frankfort is 16 hours by air, and you are THAT CLOSE TO TROUBLE if it starts in Europe."

Since the nations best prepared for trouble are the best equipped to survive it and the most likely to avoid it, he suggests that

"It is to our interest to see that WE are strong."

As a matter of fact, as General Eisenhower further suggested, even the movement for world peace through international co-operation has its main hope for success in the participation of strong nations.

"Weakness cannot co-operate with anything," he said.

"Only STRENGTH can co-operate."

THAT IS WHY American military men who have had the responsibility for building up the military machine upon which the European victory was fashioned and upon which the Pacific victory is still to be achieved, believe national defense must come FIRST in any program of peace.

They know we neglected and even scrapped our instruments of national defense after the last war, assuming that the international efforts for peace undertaken then would make them unnecessary.

They do not believe it was wrong to aspire to and work for peaceful settlement of international differences.

But they do believe it was CRIMINALLY wrong to let America become weak, and thus strip America of all prestige among the nations of the world and lose their respect and even earn their contempt.

It is undeniably true, although it is probably idle to dwell upon the matter now, that by the simple device of maintaining an impregnable national defense after the last war, America could have KEPT OUT of the present war and perhaps even prevented the world conflict in which we are now engaged.

It is equally true, and it is NOT idle to dwell upon the matter now, that a STRONG America will be most likely to keep out of future wars and to prevent future wars which might involve her.

THAT IS WHY General Eisenhower, and all other responsible American military men, urge their country to keep its military, naval and air establishments formidable and intact.

That is the reason they advocate a program of compulsory peacetime military training for American youth.

Those are the lessons THEY have learned in this war.

It is to their great credit as military men and as patriotic Americans that their first and most vigorous acts and words upon returning home give their countrymen the BENEFIT of their experience—as General Eisenhower has so commendably and forcefully done.

AM ASKED how it happened so many people of Irish and English descent live in Boston. At the peak of immigration in 1847 to 1853 the Clipper ship fare from Ireland was $9 cheaper to Boston than to New York. Nine dollars was a lot of money to an emigrant, so many bought a ticket to Boston in preference to the more expensive one to New York. In 1886 25 per cent of the residents of Boston were Irish or of Irish descent. At the same time about 14 per cent of the New Yorkers were Irish or of Irish descent.

In the same year he had previously won a race at Hot Springs, Ark., and one at Bowie. He never won three in a row at Pimlico. As to Budweiser's never having won a race before 1916, that is wrong. He won as a two-year-old and as a three-year-old in St. Louis. When Budweiser won at Hot Springs in 1916 it was the first race he had won in 12 years. However, Mr. Welch had one thing right. There was a horse named Budweiser."* (NOTE—I am quoting all of Clem's communication to show Mr. Welch and the clientele the kind of checking on items I am up against.)

Of French descent, Napoleon Lajoie; Italian, Joe DiMaggio; Irish, John McGraw; Portuguese, Lew Fonseca. Q—What is an appleknocker. A—That's a name given natives of the apple country in the State of Washington. Bing Crosby is an appleknocker. Q—Settle another argument between a couple of corporals. How old and how high is the Statue of Liberty? Though supposedly a gift from France, didn't the people of the USA put up more money to make it possible to have Miss Liberty in New York harbor? A—The Statue of Liberty is 59 years old and 152 feet high. The French put up about $450,000 to pay for the statue and present it to the USA. However, it was necessary to raise around $900,000 by popular subscription in the United States to pay for the pedestal. I could see this statue from the windows of our house in Bay Ridge. I have been near it in a rowboat, passed it hundreds of times on steamers and ferryboats but have yet to visit the statue itself.

FAIR ENOUGH

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Copyright, 1945, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

NEW YORK, June 27—The Labor Relations Bill introduced in the Senate last week is an admission by its sponsors, Hatch of New Mexico, a Democrat, and Burton of Ohio, and Ball of Minnesota, Republicans, that the Wagner Act is a vicious and dangerous law and should be made harmless by superseding legislation.

Westbrook Pegler

The iniquity of the Wagner Act and of the operations of the Labor Relations Board, which it created, has been deplorable for years. The bill now presented would acknowledge these evils and, among other measures of redress, would recognize the existence of an element known as "the public" which often has suffered grievously from the brutal arrogance of some political bosses miscalled labor leaders.

The recent distress of hundreds of thousands of New Yorkers during a slow-down strike in the omnibus service in stifling weather is an example of that irresponsibility. But, in the debates on the new bill, those Senators who now have become aware of the public interest should not fail to go further back and recall the time when a small group of revolutionaries, calling themselves a labor committee, pulled the switches in the municipal power plant of a large city in Michigan and then vanished, refusing to meet the city manager or in any way submit to negotiation the complaints which were used as a pretext for this blow at an innocent community.

"The public" does exist and the three Senators who offer this new plan are wise to direct an appeal to "the public" over the heads of various boss unioneers of the CIO and the American Federation of Labor.

THE LABOR RELATIONS BOARD has the powers of a court but does not even put up a pretense of impartiality. It is frankly against the employer in all cases and sits as a judge while its own agents appear as prosecutors and as counsel for the complaining parties.

The Wagner Act drives millions of workers into unions against their will in violation of its own stated purpose to let them select their own bargaining agents. But the Wagner Act does not provide that these unions shall conduct free internal elections or that they shall be accountable to their members for the thousands of millions of dollars which they collect as income taxes and the license to work.

The Wagner Act and the Labor Relations Board have never been overly concerned with the constitutions of the unions, with the result that Jimmy Petrillo, of the Musicians, for example, may suspend his entire constitution at will and deal with any member to his heart's content, and, as an example of the unfairness practiced on the individual worker in utter disregard of his rights as a man and a citizen, two rank-and-file toilers in Boston recently were threatened with expulsion from their union for life merely because they availed themselves of their constitutional right to testify before a committee of the Massachusetts Legislature in favor of a bill requiring union officers to account for union funds.

By that decree of banishment, these two individuals, by union law and tradition, would be forever barred from all employment in any occupation in any unionized plant.

AMONG THE QUICK reactions of those union bosses who have imposed on the patience of the whole nation there has been a cry that compulsory arbitration to prevent strikes would be a denial of the right to strike.

Those who acquire sedentary official jobs in the union movement, at high salaries and with no interruption of their pay, forget that the rank and file does not enjoy striking and would strike only as a last resort.

The rank and file member knows the meaning of payless paydays and the ignominy of shuffling parades around strike-bound works by orders of some union executive council whose members, having called the strike, nevertheless continue to draw big salaries and visit the picket lines in automobiles only to check the absentees so that they may be fined or expelled for indiscipline.

The high officials neglect the fact that, as matters now stand, the employer is not only compelled to arbitrate but often is compelled to sign contracts even though he objects to the terms. They offer no reminder, either, that while the employer may be punished for violation of a contract signed under this compulsion, no union ever is punished for violation of the same contract nor can be under the Wagner Law.

Hollywood Today

By Louella O. Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, June 27—All the guesses about what Helen Hayes is going to do on the stage next are wrong. Helen is definitely and absolutely going to be starred in Anita Loos' play, "Cocktail Bar," and thereby is an interesting story.

When Helen was here, she was Anita's guest and she said she was tired of all the heavy historical dramas she has appeared in and wanted to do a comedy, and so Anita gave her "Cocktail Bar."

Helen Hayes

Helen took it back to to New York and Oscar Hammerstein and Dick Rodgers read it, with the result that Anita goes to New York in September for the rehearsals. Just for the record, this will not be a musical play—it will only have a slight musical background and there will be no ballets or choruses.

IF BILL MAULDIN wants a job acting in Hollywood when he is out of the Army, it's his for the asking. I heard several of our producers talking about his book, "Up Front," and I have a sneaking idea Universal has bought it, although, so far, I haven't been able to verify it. The young man, himself, is very good looking and photogenic, so it's very possible when he is no longer working for Uncle Sam, he'll get a job as both technical advisor and as an actor. In spite of General Patton's complaint that Mauldin made the G. I. look unshaven and unkempt, he is terrifically popular with the G. I., and the public, too.

HUNT STROMBERG'S boy, Hunt, Jr., and Paula Stone have taken over "The Red Mill" from the Civic Light Opera Company and they'll act as co-stage producers. This is quite an undertaking since "The Red Mill" outgrossed "Song of Norway" and "Lady in the Dark" and other musicals on the stage here. Hunt and his partner will have Paula's sister, Dorothy, Charles Collins, her brother-in-law, and Eddie Foy, Jr., in the cast. Here's wishing the young people all the good luck in the world on their new enterprise, which is indeed an ambitious one. P. S. They obtained their backing from the East with nary a cent from their families.

ETHEL BARRYMORE is just crazy about her brother John's 12-year-old boy, John Barrymore, Jr. "He's exactly like Jack was," she told me, "at that age. And he's such a marvelous child—so interested in music and so brilliant. He plays all the classical music over and over again." He and his sister Dolores, who's 15, and whom she describes as an unusually attractive child, too, are the children of Dolores Costello and John Barrymore. She and Dolores are very good friends and see each other often. I talked with Ethel at length at Lady Mendl's party for Mainbocher the other evening, and I couldn't help but marvel how beautiful she still is.

In fact, it is a feature role with Claire playing a guest star on a radio program who is mysteriously killed while broadcasting. She still looks so wonderful it is hard to believe she is a grandmother, but the first thing Claire does when she sees you is to haul out the snapshots of her beautiful grandson. The little boy has posed for many posters and advertising pictures—he's that handsome. Also, in "How Do You Do?" are Bert (Mad Russian) Gordon and Ella May Morse.

Divorcee Feels Lonesome

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX

My husband and I are divorced, but I'm still deeply in love with him. For that reason I don't care to go where I'll meet other men, and I'm very lonesome. Our little 5-year-old daughter is living with me. I'm 30 years of age. What suggestions have you for me? Do you think I'll ever be happy again? DIVORCEE

My dear lady, the idea of your thinking that at 30 life has no more happiness in store for you is absurd. You say you are lonesome. Why not go places where you'll be likely to meet both men and women of your own age? Go to dances at your church where young people meet, or try the Y. W. C. A. Join community gatherings and clubs in your city that might interest you.

When your little girl goes to school, join the P.-T. A. and meet some of the other mothers. One thing will lead to another. It's important that you really interest yourself in these matters and not merely appear to do so.

Boston After Dark

INSPECTOR OF DIVISIONS JAMES SHEEHAN is credited or blamed, as the case may be, with advising Police Commissioner Sullivan on the recent shakeup of Boston captains and other ranking officers . . . Meantime, the boys in blue of Boston's "finest" are looking on in wonder, mingled occasionally with amusement, as 14 new policewomen patrol the town's nightspots and cheaper cafes.

* * *

MANY OF THE new she-officers carry escorts with them to the places under observation, and proprietors are not quite certain of protocol . . . Should they give the stalwart ladies checks, or should they "cuff" them? . . . Or should the escorts—when present—get the tabs?

* * *

OUT OF THE EARLY efforts of the new policewomen has come the first case in years of alleged "discrimination" against a nightclub . . . Complaints are about to be made with the licensing board that one of the lady-cops (in plainclothes) was told by a headwaiter that there was no table available because of reservations . . . This, the lady-cop charged, was due solely to the shade of her skin which happened to be somewhat darker than the pigmentation of other patrons . . . The case lost some strength, however, because the officer and her boy friend were ushered to a table.

Tanya's beautiful prima donna-ing at the Music Box, and Paul Zara's instrumental trio at the same spot. A thrill for lovers of good singers impends, moreover . . . Maestro Zara has a fine baritone . . . He also can sing harmony with less effort and more effect than any vocalist in town (we will wager) . . . Tanya and Zara are about to merge for occasional duets . . . It is safe to predict that the melodic result of the merger will make it a permanent thing . . . Although this department would like to save the Tanya-Zara duet for a radio spot coming up in the Fall, the column's selfishness can't be served at the expense of two fine artists . . . In short, there is no better prospect for a sensational new radio headline-team than that promised by the pair, or so we believe most firmly.

SOME BACON is coming out of hiding . . . Have you ever seen a duck swimming in the trough formed by the rail at a racetrack? . . . Scores of customers at Suffolk Downs in yesterday's nor'east downpour are witnesses that it happened . . . A young duck was tempted from the familiar water of its home lagoon in the Downs Infield, and in no time at all he was swimming his way around the track (just inside the rail) in the same general direction followed by the horses. (There is no truth in the rumor that the duck beat Clansman and Merry Sunshine and a horse called Broke in various events where these entries were highly regarded by the public, but not for long.)

THE DEAL WHEREBY Joseph P. Kennedy was to help finance the film productions of Michael Todd shows is still being discussed . . . But with less enthusiasm than at first . . . Mr. Todd, however, would appreciate a working arrangement that would give him first call on five choice New York theatres in which close friends of Mr. Kennedy's are in control . . . They are the Gaiety, the Astor, the Morosco, the Bijou and the Fulton, the last three being devoted to "legit," and the Astor and Gaiety to pictures.

"SNAFU" has posted a provisional notice and that means the show may close Saturday night until business spurts . . . Undoubtedly hurt by a puzzling title and by the public's failure to adopt the Navy's slang as civilian jargon, the show has many solid laughs and would seem to merit a longer Boston run . . . "Snafu"—if you haven't read the ads—stands for "Situation Normal, All Fouled Up."

ALLAN WILSON, THE ABLE president of Suffolk Downs, was so embarrassed by the twin victories in one day of his horse-owning youngsters that he demanded that the Wilson kids ship out their small stable to another track . . . One of the triumphs was that of Light Landing, which paid off Saturday at 110-1 . . . John Kelly, the hoss owner, has concentrated a very strategic $20,000 on the premises of the Nantasket restaurant once known as the Atlantic Pavilion . . . As Kelly's, the spot is pointing for a gay season, with a dance band and excellent food as attractions.

PROGRAM vendors at Suffolk Downs (who no longer work on commission of a cent a program) say that servicemen are the only regular tippers . . . The job once paid about $10 a day, under the commission system . . . About half that much, not counting tips, is the present average . . . Here's a new sort of parlay . . . A Bostonian with a zest for "action" passed along to his bookie a combined bet on the ball game, the seventh race at Suffolk Downs and the first dog race at Taunton . . . He won his ball game and horse bets, but the dog whose victory would have completed the parlay ran second . . . Incidentally, the "action's" furiously fast these days at the ball park. One man—a non professional gambler, at that—is wagering as much as $5000 a day on the ball games.

WASHINGTON, June 27—The War Surplus Board which has control over a potential $100,000,000,000 worth of commodities—buildings, ships, railroad branch lines, and even hairpins—has the most cramped and least pretentious offices in bureaucratic Washington.

The Surplus Property Board is taking its job seriously. All office furnishings, for example are strictly surplus. The Board has laid down the unwritten policy of not taking the best for itself—and thus far is strictly living up to it.

Members of the Deputy Directory, who are disposing of millions of dollars' worth of property daily—the largest merchandising operation the world has ever known—are packed in tight, desk to desk. They can't bend over without upsetting at least two stenographers and a file clerk.

A while back the higher officials had some upholstered leather chairs—but they sold them right from under themselves. They are now squatting on hard wood again.

* * *

THEY CERTAINLY have some peculiar stuff to sell. Recently they were notified to find buyers for horse-drawn hearses.

Where the hearses have been all this time, they haven't yet been apprised. It's been a long time since any mortician, with claims to modernity, has operated a horse-drawn hearse. There is a grave suspicion at the Surplus Property Board that they are Spanish-American War models.

I kind of wish I had a little spare dough to invest in one. It'd be so nice to have—and so much in keeping with my feelings—whenever one of my editors comes to town.

BRIG. GEN. RALPH H. TATE, father-in-law of the eminent economist, Russell Bruce, has been injured in action far beyond the call of duty. He got whacked in the smeller by a photographer at the Pentagon Building.

The gallant general fought through two-and-a-half years of the Italian campaign without receiving a scratch. He returned on a short furlough and was requested to have his picture taken with other members of the 15th Army group.

The general, looking every inch the warrior, posed this way and that. The photographer refused to be satisfied. Finally he decided the lighting was wrong. He jerked up a large beaverboard and tried to swing it over the General's head.

Instead he caught the great man smack across the bugle.

General Tate is now wearing a deep crease across his nose, but he is not put out.

"You ought to see how much more respect and sympathy it wins me," he said.

* * *

INCIDENTALLY, Gen. Tate said he sort of wishes he could go back to Italy.

"I just don't understand it," he said. "We have everything here. And they have nothing. Yet they manage to make life easier."

* * *

THE OTHER DAY I expressed the fear that Archibald MacLeish might be working for the Capital Transit Co. because of the haunting poem adorning its trolley cars:

Copyright 1945, King Features Synd., Inc.

"Like I always say—give a general a little authority an' he sure makes the most of it!"

"Bill McBride
"Speeds his ride
"(And that of many others)
"By using the center exit."

It seems, however, there is another poet equally as disturbing as Archie. Writes E. Cleveland Giddings, company executive:

"We deny, unequivocally, that your friend, Mr. MacLeish, contributed the 'Bill McBride' poem. But, being sensitive about our poetic endeavors, we have decided to change our tack, (which reminds me of the last photo I saw of you orating under full sail). So we are now switching to a humorous cartoon presentation."

* * *

ANENT the trolley poem I have also received this from Mrs. Margaret M. Galatha of Alexandria, Va.:

"You have blamed numerous sins on the New Deal, but it is going a little too far when you suggest Archie wrote 'Bill McBride.'

"Mr. MacLeish's poetic sins are venial compared to that ode. It has haunted and tortured me. I have tried to figure out the end. I can't. Nothing rhymes with exit. So then I try to figure out what the author had in mind before he was suddenly called to the telephone, went to lunch, or died. It is evident he never came back.

"I have lost friends and influenced people to flee in the opposite direction when they see me coming, because immediately I ask: 'Can you think of anything to rhyme with exit?'

"To leave the riders dangling helplessly on their straps is a crime, and I think you should do something about it."

* * *

YOU HEARD what Mr. Giddings said, Mrs. Galatha! Surcease has arrived already. I only hope you do not injure yourself laughing at his new humorous cartoon presentation.

* * *

I ADORE the Federal Register. It is always so logical. Recently it had this:

"MPR 4, Order 1. Open hearth or blast furnace grades of steel scrap containing coffee content of 5 per cent and over. Doubtless will be corrected to read 'copper.'"

Beauty

New Cream Stands Alone

Fashion

By RUTH MUGGLEBEE
Beauty and Fashion Editor

A CRYSTAL BALL may be a psychic's prop . . . but no beauty-conscious woman needs such a foil to assure her of a vital, vibrant and lovely complexion. The resolve to do and faithful adherence to the daily use of a one-purpose scientific cream can make an appreciable difference in the texture and revitalization of her skin. Nor does lovely Columbia Star, Evelyn Keyes need the crystal ball to tell her how lovely she is to look at.

WHEN A COSMETICIAN whose admirable reputation remains undisputed over a period of 35 years stakes her reputation on a new product of her own creation . . . the product certainly should command attention. She is known the length and breadth of the country . . . and across the seas as well . . . for her devotion to . . . and success in . . . alleviating young skin ills.

But now she has turned her attention to the facial ills of women for whom the first blush of youth has vanished . . . and whose complexion has begun to take on the worrisome tidings of the vital years. Her new cream product is not offered as a lubricant . . . nor a medicated salve. It is not a substitute for any cleansing, foundation or tissue creams a woman may be using.

This cream stands alone and has one purpose only . . . and that purpose, according to its creator, will prove to be a most important factor in any woman's beauty life . . . especially as she grows older. This is it . . . in our youth we have certain substances in the skin which give it clarity, vitality, beauty. Unfortunately they do not stay with us indefinitely . . . they diminish gradually with each passing year. The skin begins to look dry, coarse-grained, lined.

This cream helps augment the diminishing supply. How? It contains certain precious substances which tend to restore the larder of young-looking skin that is drying up. They have the gift of being absorbed by the skin. For the most telling results of this cream . . . it should be used daily. If applied before retiring it can be left on all night. If used during the day . . . give it, at least, 20 minutes to accomplish its work before wiping it off . . . or, if you wish, put makeup right over it.

The effort expended upon the birth of this cream was long and painstaking . . . with carefully supervised laboratory tests to note the effect on many types and ages . . . until it satisfied its creator. To attest to her faith that this product will prove to be a most necessary beauty aid for women . . . its creator-cosmetician is traveling from city to city lecturing on its application and results . . . since countless women have followed her instructions have found that the skin begins to appear re-vitalized after only a week's use.

For the name of this skin-revitalizing cream, phone the Beauty Dept., LIBerty 4000, or write me, care of the Boston Evening American, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

PLAY CLOTHES can be a fashion rhapsody . . . and this bare midriff number is as lyrical as a song. The top has brief sleeves and tie front . . . while nicely cut shorts are combined with a wrap-around skirt. Of soft, clinging-to-the-figure material . . . figured in a musical motif.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY—You are definite, colorful, never wishy-washy. Once you take up a matter you generally get it done. Love to travel, search for new landscapes, faces. May like sailing, exploring. But always long to return to early home. You are moody at times, sensitive. Loyal to your friends and family. Do avoid arguing. Birthdate: Earl Cranston, Episcopal Bishop; Charles Stewart Parnell, Irish national leader; Helen Keller, blind genius.

My Day

By Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt

HYDE PARK, Tuesday—I wonder how many of my readers saw the report made after a year's study by the National Commission on Children in Wartime. The members of this commission were appointed in 1942 and reappointed in 1944 by Miss Katherine Lenroot, chief of the Children's Bureau, U. S. Dept. of Labor. They belonged to organizations which worked in the interests of children. There were also representatives of government and labor in the group.

They used, during their period of research and planning, the advice and assistance of the staff in the Children's Bureau.

IN THE PAST, our federal government has made grants of somewhere around $6,000,000 a year to state health departments for maternal and child health. The national commission urges that this be raised to $50,000,000 at once.

Similarly, they say that federal support to state crippled children's agencies, which is now less than $4,000,000 a year, should be increased to $25,000,000. In addition, there should be a major increase in annual appropriations to state welfare departments, so that there may be a statewide coverage of child welfare agencies within the next 10 years.

They have set goals to be obtained in every state, but these goals will not be obtained without aid.

The commission says, for instance, that adequate medical care and health services should be given to mothers and to children from babyhood through adolescence.

This means the establishment of health centers, clinics and hospital care for maternity patients. It means wide expansion of school health service in all schools, both academic and vocational.

It does not mean a cursory examination and a notice sent to parents telling them what should be done, and no follow-up to find out if anything has been done.

It means a dental care program, starting with children as they enter school and continuing through all their school years. It means a mental health program so that we will not examine young men of 18 in the future and find that four out of every ten have physical and mental handicaps.

★ ★ ★

THE FOREGOING is what the commission feels should happen merely in the health field. But they go into some more fundamental questions.

They say there should be family insurance against loss of income from unemployment, disability, old age and death. There should be the widest kind of educational opportunity for every child according to the abilities that child develops.

We have wasted a great deal of ability in the past by giving so little free higher education. A study should be made immediately of how this may be made available, regardless of income, to such children as show talent in various fields.

The Correct Thing

GIVING THE BRIDE AWAY—The bridegroom and best man do not take part in the wedding processional but meet the bride and her father at the head of the aisle or at the chancel rail. If there is no formal "giving in marriage," the father relinquishes the bride's arm and takes his seat in the first pew on the left side of the middle aisle.

Your All Purpose Coat

By BETTINA BEDWELL

THE GREATCOAT, traditional all-weather, all-purpose coat, is going to be better style than ever for some time ahead, and when a good designer makes one it's a blessing in any wardrobe.

Some of the newest examples of such coats come in swagger types, roomy and full of verve. They can be worn over anything from a tweed suit in the country to a fine, sheer dress-up frock.

Zoe de Salle has designed a beauty, which is sketched. She makes this coat of Hockanum wool in a rich, bright brown color, and gives it a swing any jive addict would adore. The shoulder yoke merges into the wide sleeves, and there is a braided yarn tie at the neckline instead of a collar. A bonnet of brown to match the hat and a big handbag are accessories also designed by Zoe de Salle.

Treats in Salads

By MARTHA LEE

ALL KINDS of interesting things have been observed at the luncheons attended by delegates of the United Nations Conference. Naturally, there is an imposing mixture of food habits, but as a whole our foreign friends have been very diplomatic in selecting native American dishes. Salads are a favorite among our own people, but the foreigners are getting acquainted with these strange combinations very quickly.

The serving of fruit as a salad is particularly an American custom. Many of these foreign visitors will undoubtedly take back to their countries this pleasing American salad habit. What they learned here will help to explain the craving our boys overseas have for "just one orange," or "Mom's big fruit salad."

Oranges also have been featured in many of the salads served at the United Nations' Conference.

ORANGE COTTAGE CHEESE SALAD

Cupped lettuce leaf. Mound of cottage cheese. Cover with orange slices. Fresh cherry garnish.

FRUIT AND NUT SPECIAL

Bed of shredded lettuce. Layer of orange slices. One each: prune stuffed with cheese, date stuffed with half walnut, spoonful of seedless raisins. Lemon and oil dressing.

CALIFORNIA COLESLAW

Coleslaw with shredded carrots, green pepper strips and olives. Lemon and oil dressing.

ORANGE AND GRAPEFRUIT SALAD

Mound of shredded lettuce. Orange slices, grapefruit sections, prunes stuffed with cottage cheese as garnish. Choice of dressings.

AVOCADO AND GRAPEFRUIT SALAD

Mound of shredded lettuce. Circle with avocado slices, grapefruit sections and olives. Mayonnaise thinned with beet juice and lemon for dressing.

PEACH SALAD SUPREME

1 pkg. lime-flavored gelatin dessert
2 cups hot or boiling water
½ cup chopped walnuts
2 tbsp. strained honey
2 tbsp. mayonnaise or salad dressing
8 canned cling peach halves
Lettuce
French dressing or salad dressing

Dissolve gelatin dessert in hot or boiling water, according to manufacturer's directions. Cool. Pour ½ gelatin mixture into 1 quart ring mold which has been rinsed in cold water and chill until set. Meanwhile, combine walnuts, honey and mayonnaise. Put some of this mixture into center of each peach half. Then lay peach halves, filled side up, on top of chilled gelatin mixture. Pour rest of gelatin mixture over and around peaches, and chill until set. Unmold on a bed of lettuce and serve with French dressing or cooked salad dressing. Makes 8 servings.

FROZEN PEAR AND CREAM CHEESE SALAD

2 3-oz. pkgs. cream cheese
1 1-lb. can pears
6 tbsp. French dressing
Salad greens
Mayonnaise or French dressing

Mash the cream cheese, then add the juice from the pears, and the 6 tbsp. French dressing. Beat with a hand beater or electric beater at high speed, until smooth. Then pour this mixture over the pears, which have been cut into thin lengthwise slices and arranged in the bottom of one of the freezing trays of an automatic refrigerator. Chill until firm enough to cut into squares. Arrange on salad greens, and serve with mayonnaise or French dressing. Makes 8 to 10 servings.

Tomato Plants If Staked Need Daily Pruning

By FOSTER H. WEISS

(Head Vegetable Gardening Department, Norfolk County Agricultural School, and Director, Boston Record American-Sunday Advertiser demonstration garden on Boston Common.)

When tomato plants start to grow they move very fast, as much as three or four inches a day, and plants which were set earlier in the month are now well footed and making rapid growth.

Look the plant over carefully before you start to prune and then watch what you are doing. Under crowded conditions single stem plants seem to do best, but many growers use the double stem system.

Premiere In Cambridge

More earnest than inspired, "The Passionate Congressman," the Cambridge Summer Theater production of Lee Harrison Falk's new comedy, boasts more than a measure of present - day significance.

An autumn opening on Broadway has been planned for the Falk play, which was given a world premiere at Cambridge's Brattle Hall. Some of us last night doubted the "Congressman's" ability to weather Manhattan. In his solemn concern with his theme the playwright has overlooked the obligation to his audience to provide them with pleasure and enjoyment

Not that "The Passionate Congressman" is totally lacking in humor but its bright spots are far too few and scattered. Neil Hamilton, who since he exchanged residence from Lynn to Hollywood has made more than 300 films, is starred in the title role. It is happy casting. Hamilton's Congressman, Daniel Emmet Nelson, known to his intimates as "Easy," has authority, genuineness and a he-man charm that instantly wins you over to his constituency.

"Easy" Nelson has been reluctantly won over to legislate for an anti-discrimination bill by an enticingly blonde young liberal and her friends. These include the son of a multi-millionaire opponent of Chicago's "white knight of Halsted street" since his sponsorship by the powerful Mike Harrigan political organization.

The action pivots around Easy's fight to put through the bill at the risk of a personal political blackout and his loyal and loving secretary's self-sacrifice to stop a smear-Easy campaign.

Louise Valery, back to Cambridge to play the girl liberal role, does nice work, Edmon Ryan's witty reporter and John McKee's sage associate justice are excellent, as is Eliot Duvey's bit as a newspaperman.

ANDY RUSSELL

Andy Russell at RKO

Andy Russell, idol of the nation's bobby-soxers will share the RKO Boston stage with Raymond Scott and his new orchestra and those expert harmonizers, the Pied Pipers, starting tomorrow. In the opinion of the house management, it is merely "one of the greatest 'in person' attractions to be booked into the theater this season."

The nation's newest singing sensation, young Russell will be making his first personal appearance here. With his initial recording of "Besame Mucho," followed with an even more sensational recording of "Amor."

Latest statistics reveal there are 240 Russell Sprouts fan clubs in America and more springing up each week. Andy has just finished his first film, "Stork Club," with Betty Hutton, and will head back to the West Coast after his present tour.

The companion film fare will be "Don Juan Quilligan," co-starring William Bendix, Joan Blondell and Phil Silvers.

GI Missed Date But Kissed Miss

CAMP SHELBY, Miss., June 27—S-Sgt. Tommy Carpenter of the 2nd Armored Division, who leaped from a transport in Boston harbor to collect a kiss from a WAC, declared the kiss was worth the swim, on his arrival here for discharge. He has 122 points.

He said he missed a date with T-4 Helen Stanislowski because he had been "slow in asking for it," but added he had collected another kiss.

He said if he had known there would be so much publicity he wouldn't have made the leap. "I'm sure glad I haven't got a girl back home," he added.

Some Kill, Some Salvage: Here Are the Salvagers

By AUSTEN LAKE

THE ARMY SURGEON, A GRAY and latter-aged lieutenant colonel, was chatting about the advance in medical method since that other world war. On furlough from his Paris base he was saying, "Despite its ruin and misery, war serves one constructive purpose. It's the surgeon's best teacher."

Austen Lake

The writer remembers the vast French organization in 1918 called "Mutiles de la Guerre," men whose faces were so horribly disfigured that they covered them with masks or mufflers, men whose jaws were shot way, men with portions of their features missing. They were a pitiful sight! Yet due to their numbers they became a powerful political force!

"Nowadays," said the surgeon, "we've perfected a method of preserving bone and cartilage taken from the dead. We can keep them for reasonably long periods in 'stock,' somewhat as an auto repair shops keeps shelves of spare parts and replacements. So when we need a section of bone or cartilage, we have it handy without performing secondary operations on the patient or donor.

"Plastic surgery is not new, but we do it much better today. I've seen men whose faces were almost blasted away restored with scarcely a blemish. They may look a little different, but at least they return to civil life with presentable faces."

Joe Broadfoot Need Not Have Died!

A LARGE PERCENTAGE OF AIR FORCE injuries in the combat zones were burns, mostly the hands. Once a young American pilot told me how his Thunderbolt fighter had been set on fire at 20,000 feet, and how in the fury of a wind whipped flame he'd struggled to open his overhead cowling. He hadn't been conscious of pain or sensation, but he could see the skin of his hands stripped off like sheets of opaque cellophane.

"Yes," said the surgeon, "the technique of skin grafting has also been revolutionized. Now we can graft as much as a square foot at a time. There's a roller device which peels off healthy skin from the hips or thighs to any thickness desired. Such 'skin dressings,' laid over fresh burns quicken healing. Where patients normally required eight months to recover sometimes we have them well in three or four weeks."

The death rate among the wounded has become amazingly low due to swift application of plasma and sulpha powder on the field. The surgeon said: "If only the people at home could watch the miracle of a wounded soldier lying blanched and blue from loss of blood gradually returning to natural pink as the plasma drains into his veins they'd be quicker to donate their pints of blood to the Red Cross."

And even now I see the horrid vision of Joe Broadfoot as he lay on a hummock in the upper Argonne in 1918. A German machine gun had slashed his stomach open, revealing white glistening thorax muscles around the crimson flow. Medical science had not then discovered the uses of plasma. So the stretcher crews applied gauze and cotton compacts while waiting for the overworked ambulances to come from the rear.

And Joe, recognizing the inevitable, had asked that I fish his wallet from his tunic and divide the profits of a previous night's dice game among his old billet gang. "Buy some cognac," he whispered. "Maybe I'll be there."

If he was there in that later day behind the lines, it was in the silence of the invisible. For we set him an empty chair and poured him an untasted noggin. As I say, that was before the discovery of blood plasma and for the want of those life-giving jars Joe died, as thousands of others died, too.

"Old Bone; Old Tissue . . ."

I RECALL AN AMERICAN BASE HOSPITAL at Beaune, France, where in the last war men lay with wounds over compound fractures and surgeons came to insert irrigation tubes which flushed Carrel-Dakin solution in a constant, bacteria-cleansing drip. Healing was slow, infection frequent and dressing constant.

The torture hour was at nine in the morning when a nurse rolled in a surgical table that we called "the agony wagon" and began opening towels that contained shining instruments. There was a lad down the ward as the surgeon came cheerily up remarking, "Scrub-up time! Old bone! Old tissue! Now don't let me hear a sound!"

And the lad would cram the pillow into his mouth, raise the ridges of his scalp, shut his eyes and siphon loud noises through his nose. "We could have saved all that too," said the gray haired colonel. "The Orr method does away with most of the suffering in wounds over compound fractures. We used to 'overtreat' such cases. So now we usually set the bones, dress the wounds and encase them in a plaster cast. Then we simply ignore them for four or five weeks.

"Of course what occurs inside that cast isn't very pretty. Pus collects and there is a terrific stench which we absorb somewhat with charcoal casings. But when the cast comes off and the wound is washed, there is a firm healthy tissue started. Healing is well under way. And in the meantime the patient has no fever, no pain, eats and sleeps well. Also it helps where the medical staff is limited!

"Infection was our worst enemy in previous wars. Bacteria killed more men than bullets. The mortality from septic wounds was terrific. But now fewer than one in two hundred die from infection. Much of the credit is due to the swift field treatment by the soldier medics, who deserve a high place when the Army roles of herosim are published."

I'll echo that last statement and so will every combat Joe in our forces. For it is one of war's inconsistencies that the wounded are cured to destroy some more, or be destroyed. Gruesome reality dictates that some kill and some must salvage. These are the salvagers.

Sox Find Feller Near Hill Peak

By HERB FINNEGAN

CHICAGO, June 27—As the Red Sox waited around for tonight's game with the White Sox (O'Neill 5-1 vs. Grove 7-4) talk reverted to the game at Great Lakes in which Bob Feller fanned nine Sox and beat 'em 3-2 on a five-hitter. "He's every bit as good as he was in '41," said Skeeter Newsome of the former Cleveland fireballer.

"Fast, I'll say he was fast," said Dolph Camilli who was pressed into service at first base without benefit of batting practice after being away from the diamond for 2½ weeks. "And smart. Only curve ball he threw was for that third strike in the ninth."

"He showed me plenty," said Leon Culberson who was nearly decapitated by a Feller pitch which "took off," as the players say.

All were agreed that it would take only a few weeks of steady work by Feller to reach his prewar form.

Feller himself wasn't so confident. "This is my fourth year out of the game," he said, "and a ball player needs steady work to keep on the beam. I couldn't play ball at sea (28 months), and I can't get steady work here.

"I'm not permitted to play 'off the campus,' he went on. "That means I can pitch only at great length, and we don't have many games here. I'm not getting the competition I need to get sharp again. This is the first time since '41 that I've gone the route against major league opposition, its only my fifth game of the season.

Feller weighs 183, "Same as I did in Cleveland," and looks solid "I'm not myself yet by a long shot," he disagreed. "Irregular hours on a battle wagon, more than the heat, get a fellow down physically."

Feller is managing the Great Lakes team, boss of fellows like Mike Higgins, Walker Cooper, Johnny Gorsica, Denny Galehouse. He has a positive way about him, knows his way around and there is no question that he'll be looking for a managerial berth in the majors one day.

"He was ready to buy into the Cleveland club when war broke out," said one of his intimates. "I believe he would have managed had he done so."

There is little doubt. Boudreau, current manager, isn't yet 28. Feller will be 27 in the fall. Joe Cronin managed Washington when he was 26, Bucky Harris when he was 24.

But there is doubt that Feller will buy into the club now he was getting $40,000 "and extras" from the Indians. He has lost $160,000 in salary alone in his four years away from the league.

Owner, manager or player, all hands agree he will be some pumpkins as a pitcher again when he returns to big league competition—probably in '46.

Jim Wilson defaulted at Great Lakes because of a sore back. He may default himself to Louisville soon. Lacks confidence in himself . . . Randy Heflin was scored on thrice at Great Lakes but not a ball was hit hard off him. Two errors hurt. He's due for a starting spot. Dolph Camilli played nine innings but Cronin doesn't think he'll start him under the lights tonight. Camilli is still a classy fielder and he can move quite fast for a chap of 37 . . . "Greenberg will hit for the Tigers" prophesied Mike Higgins. "He always took care of himself. Last time I saw him in Texas he was playing handball. He's only 34" Feller used to pitch aboard ship . . . Walker Cooper was rejected four times before the Navy took him . . . Higgins is 36, has three children . . . Mike Ryba, Vic Johnson and Clem Hausmann have rejoined the club. Bob Garbark was due back today. Pete Fox is still absent . . . Dave Ferriss attended Rogers Hornsby's baseball school this morning.

Andrews to Help Tribe Gain Needed Victories

By JACK CONWAY

GENERAL MANAGER John Quinn looks for Nate Andrews to do a great deal to help the Braves improve their position in the National League race . . . Andrews, back in the good graces of Bob Coleman again, proved his ability as a pitcher when he halted the winning surge of the Dodgers . . . Boston fans will receive an opportunity to see Andrews in action during the present home stay of the Tribe.

It is hoped that Andrews' comeback will act as an inspiration to Pitchers Tobin and Javery who have not done as well as has been expected of them this year . . . Tobin and Javery should be able to do much better than they have so far this season.

Nate Andrews

There is more baseball interest in Boston than there has been for several years . . . with the public so keenly interested in the national pastime, ball players should bear down more than some of them have been doing . . . high salaries and the knowledge that it would be difficult to replace them have caused many first class players to coast along . . . Some so-called stars have been devoting too much time to social life . . . Unless they change their ways, they will be run out of baseball when players now in service return.

You will not find ballplayers returning from the armed services to the big leagues leafing on the job and seeing how many parties they can drop into at night . . . Dave Ferriss, formerly with the Army Air Corps, is a fine example of a returned serviceman giving everything he has to baseball . . . This is why he has won 10 out of 12 games and proved the most promising rookie in baseball.

I look for Hank Greenberg, at the age of 34, to set a pace when he rejoins the Tigers that will make some of the youngsters a bit dizzy . . . Greenberg has always been a hard-working player . . . He carried the same system into the Army which is why he did well in the armed forces.

Baseball's playboys had better start checking on "exits" from the game unless they charge their ways.

Lucky Mutuel Clerk

WHEN JOCKEY Bill Balzaretti brought Light Landing in a winner at Suffolk Downs at a payoff price of $222.60, one of the most jubilant persons in the East Boston track was a mutuel clerk. The clerk by mistake had punched out two $5 tickets on Light Landing. He frantically tried to dispose of them, but he was successful in disposing of only one of the tickets. He figured the race would cost him $5. Then along came Light Landing to win for the record price of the meeting.

There is a prominent Boston racegoer who used to have an agreement with mutual clerks by which they would sell him all tickets they punched out through error.

"I found this system as good as any other in playing the races," said the Boston man. "One day at Narragansett Park a clerk at the $50 window punched out the wrong ticket. I pooled $50 with a group of my friends and the horse won at a long price."

Lack of Good Boxers

THE RECENT boxing show staged by the Goodwin Club at Fenway Park was additional proof of the lack of good boxers. Tami Mauriello was the only person on the card who displayed any great amount of ability, but even in the latter's bout it was difficult to get a good line on him as Lou Nova did not give him any opposition.

Nova fought as poorly as he did the night he was knocked out by Joe Louis. Nova has apparently lost all interest in the boxing game. He has been talking about going into the show business. Certainly none of the 7334 fans who paid $29,772 to see him against Mauriello will voice any objections if he never enters a ring again.

It will take top local boxers to revive the boxing game in Boston. There is always a lack of confidence in a program which features out-of-town mitt wielders. This is one of the reasons the Fenway Park show did not draw as well as anticipated.

Two More Arrests Made in Dog Dispute

Confusion over the opening of the dog racing season at Wonderland Park Revere, continued to rule last night when two more greyhound owners were arrested in the dispute between the dog owners and the park directors over an increase in the nightly purse allowance for the meet scheduled to open next Monday night.

Suffolk County authorities last night in Revere arrested H. B. ("Babe") Diamond and H. E. Alderson. They were picked up on the seldom invoked law which permits the arrest of out-of-state residents if it appears likely they will leave the state while involved in litigation.

Yesterday three other dog men, arrested under the same law Monday night, had their cases continued 48 hours in Lynn district court and were released on their own recognizance.
